

HENRY CLAY FRICK DIES SUDDENLY AT NEW YORK HOME

COMPLICATIONS FOLLOWING PTOMAIN POISONING FATAL TO COKE COMPANY FOUNDER

Career One of the Most Fascinating in the Romance of Industry in the United States; a Poor Boy at 10, at 60 He was a Man of Unguessed Millions, Having Built Up Greatest Coke Business on Earth.

BORN IN 1849 ON A FARM NEAR WEST OVERTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Henry Clay Frick, capitalist, pioneer steel manufacturer and art collector, died suddenly at his fifth avenue home this morning following an attack of ptomaine poisoning from which he had been suffering for several weeks. He was 69 years old.

The passing of Mr. Frick was not expected, even by members of his family, and only his brother, Oscar Rodgers, was with him when he died. Just before 5 o'clock he asked for a drink of water and after it was given to him he murmured: "I think I will go to sleep."

Immediately afterward he relapsed, apparently exhausted, and the doctor's efforts to rouse him were unsuccessful. Rodgers then summoned members of the family and Dr. A. L. Connor, the physician who had been attending Mr. Frick. When Dr. Connor arrived he pronounced the condition beyond medical aid. Knowledge of Mr. Frick's illness was not general although his close friends knew he had been seriously ill. Dr. Connor said that Mr. Frick had shown for the last month symptoms of an organic affection of the heart which presumably was the result of severe attacks of inflammatory rheumatism to which he was subject.

The career of Henry Clay Frick has formed one of the most fascinating chapters in the romance of industry in the United States. At 10, a boy on a farm, in the family of only ordinary means, he was at 60, a man of so many millions that his fortune, like those of Carnegie and Rockefeller, was largely a matter of guess-work even to himself. It has been said he was worth more than $100,000,000, perhaps as much as $200,000,000.

Mr. Frick built up the greatest coke business in the world, and acquired such vast interests in steel that he was also one of the principal magnates in that industry, and in round numbers his net worth was estimated at one of the world's greatest collections of master paintings.

Mr. Frick was born December 19, 1849, at West Overton, Pa. This village was named after the maternal grandfather of Mr. Frick, Abram Overton, whose original family name was Overholtzer, and who settled in Western Pennsylvania when that region was regarded as the frontier of civilization. As the settlements along the Allegheny and Monongahela grew, the Pittsburgh region emerged from its wilderness. Mr. Overton became the leading miller and distiller in Western Pennsylvania. His daughter, Elizabeth, married John W. Frick, a young man of Swiss ancestry, who at that time was working as an engineer in the Overholt distillery. It was from this union that the future capitalist was born. The father at that time was not making a fortune, but did not make a remarkable success.

Henry Clay Frick was practically adopted into the Overton family when he was about 12 years old. He received a good basic schooling, but there was nothing in his boyhood to indicate the remarkable ability which characterized his later life, except his eagerness to get into business. For a time he was bookkeeper in his grandfather's distillery, and from this position he went to Morgan & Company, coke dealers, and at Pittsburgh 21 years of age he appeared in the steel industry. The coke industry was in its infancy. The iron masters of Pittsburgh were just beginning to appreciate the value of coke for their furnaces.

The construction of the Mount Pleasant & Broad Ford railroad, in 1871, marked the opening up of a new and active era in the Connellsville coke trade and the introduction to its history of its most prominent character, Henry C. Frick. In that year Mr. Frick and his associates started into the coke business, with 300 acres of coal and 50 ovens known as the Frick works. In 1872, 50 ovens were added to the Frick plant and the Henry Clay plant of 100 ovens was constructed. The same year, Robert Braddock built the original Mount Braddock works of 100 ovens; the Cohens built the first Jintown plant of 100 ovens; and Willson, Boyle & Playford, Uniontown lawyers, erected the nucleus of the Valley plant, 50 ovens. A boom in oven construction began, and when the panic of 1873 struck the region there were 3,673 ovens constructed.

There followed a lean period during which coke sold around a dollar a ton and many would-be operators were glad to get out of the business. It was during this trying time that Henry C. Frick laid the foundation of his fortune. He had unbounded faith in the future of Connellsville coke, and fortunately he was substantially backed by those who had confidence in his judgment. He added largely to his holdings during this period. The coke was weighed their heads and weighed disaster, but young Frick paid no heed. In 1877, there came a sudden and unprecedented demand for coke which sent the price up to $5 per ton at the ovens. H. C. Frick & Co. were ready for the boom. Mr. Frick made a large profit, and that helped him far in his future work.

HENRY CLAY FRICK

MR. FRICK WAS MEMBER OF LOCAL MASONIC LODGE

Had Not Visited Connellsville Since Paddock Funeral Back in 1894.

Henry Clay Frick's last visit to Connellsville was in 1894, at which time he attended the funeral of H. C. Paddock, chief engineer of the H. C. Frick Coke company, who was killed at Davidson during a riot attending the strike of that year. The service was held in the old Presbyterian church which stood in West Crawford avenue.

Mr. Frick was a member of King Solomon Lodge 2443, A. O. U. M. W., Connellsville, at the time of his death. He was a liberal contributor to the fund of the Connellsville Masonic association at the time of the erection of the temple in South Pittsburgh street. A portrait of Mr. Frick hangs in the temple.

The chimneys of Trinity Lutheran church were the gift of Mr. Frick. James S. Braddock of Mount Pleasant married a sister of Mr. Frick. She died a few years ago. The late James A. Childs of Connellsville and Dunbar township was also a brother-in-law. Mr. Frick having married his sister.

G. A. R. TO PLANT TREES AND GIVE THEM TO SCHOOLS

Two Silver Maples Will Be Set Out on Library Lawn Friday Afternoon.

With a view to promoting the spirit of patriotism in the community and looking upon the children of the public schools as the nucleus of reaching the public at large, William F. Kurtz, Post No. 104, of the Grand Army of the Republic will on Friday afternoon plant two silver maple trees on the Carnegie Free Library lawn, and at formal exercises to be held at 2 o'clock will present them to the schools.

This plan is original with Kurtz, post adjutant, who made the announcement this afternoon. It was discussed at the last meeting of the post and since that time the formal program for Friday was arranged. Patriotic songs and patriotic addresses will feature the occasion. The children will assemble on the lawn and sing. Members of the school board, city council and the trustees of the library have been invited to a cordial and urgent invitation to extend to the general public to be present.

The tentative program follows: Singing of a patriotic song, patriotic invocation, Rev. J. S. Showers, pastor of the United Brethren church. Music—Children. Address, Erasmus Wilson, the "quiet observer" of the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times and chief of the Boy Scouts of Allegheny county, also known as "Diet White Pine." Presentation of trees—Captain J. D. Dunn. Acceptance of trees—Student of high school. Music—Children. Members of the Grand Army post will meet at the office of Commander W. P. Clark in the Welch building at 2:30 o'clock. An effort is being made to have J. B. Kurtz, drum corps act as escort to the library grounds.

The excavation for the trees is under way. The trees have been secured from a grower near the city. They are from four to five inches in diameter at the base.

Whether the program will be observed annually, Captain Dunn was unable to say. "We want to build in the people a deeper sense of patriotism," he said. "The avenue is through the children of the schools, we believe. We want everybody to come to this ceremony."

During his visit here, Mr. Wilson hoped to meet the Boy Scouts of the city. He asks that all make themselves acquainted with him.

HIGH LIVING COST, UNREST, RADICALISM, AMONG SUBJECTS IN THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Urges Laws Designed Toward Speedy Return to a Peace-Time Basis.

TO DISCUSS TREATY LATER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—General recommendations on legislation to combat the cost of living, labor unrest, radicalism and a readjustment of the nation to peace time basis were the features of President Wilson's annual message to Congress, delivered today.

The peace treaty, the President told Congress, will be discussed in a separate message later, as will the railroad question.

For the second time only since the President established the practice of addressing Congress in person his message was read today by the clerk. The President's principal recommendations were:

Establishment of a budget system for the national finances. Reorganization of the taxation system with simplification of the income and excess profits.

Readjustment of the tariff system, if necessary, to meet changed world conditions and make the system conform with the fact that the United States is the greatest capitalist in the world.

Recognition and relief for veteran soldiers of the World War, particularly in the way of government farms as proposed by Secretary Lane.

Proper measures to foster the dye-stuff industry built up during the war, to keep the United States independent of foreign supply.

An enlarged program for rural development in recognition of the farmers' part in the war.

Measures which will "remove the cause" of "inflated prices" in our "body politic."

At this point the President made several extensive references to the peace treaty by saying the causes for "unrest" are "superficial" rather than "deep-seated" and that they "arise from or are connected with the failure on the part of our government to arrive speedily at a just and permanent peace, permitting return to normal conditions, from the transition of radical theories from sections of European countries during such delay, from heartless profiteering resulting from the increase of the cost of living and lastly from the machinations of passionate and unscrupulous agitators. With return to normal conditions this unrest will rapidly disappear."

The President renewed his recommendations for legislation to deal effectively with "those persons who by violent methods would arrogate our time tested institutions."

Several recommendations, some revival of previous ones, were made by the President to bring down the cost of living. Among them were extension of the food control law to peace time, for the emergency, regulations for transportation of foods in interstate commerce, a cold storage model after the law in New Jersey, a law requiring marks to show the length of time foods are kept in storage and a law to secure "competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits by federal license of corporations selling food in interstate commerce."

A long portion of the message was devoted to a discussion of the conditions and rights of labor.

"A definite program to bring about an improvement in the conditions of labor and bring about a genuine democratization of industry" was recommended.

"The only way to keep men from agitating against grievances is to remove the grievances," said the message. "At another point it declared the need of revivification in government."

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Tim Recipe that Anybody Can Apply

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmothers' time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on the dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

Breaving at home is messy an out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking a drug store for a bottle of "Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so natural and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking on strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

JOHN STEELE SAMPLE.
John Steele Sample, 71 years old, former resident of Connellsville, died suddenly at his home at Wilkinsburg of heart trouble. Mr. Sample is well known among the older residents of Connellsville. He was a widower and is survived by one son, Thompson Sample, and a daughter, Miss Sara Sample, at home.

MARGARET LEE.
Margaret, eight-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Summer Lee of Philadelphia, formerly of Connellsville, died Tuesday of last week at the family home. Interment was made at Scranton on Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Lee was formerly manager of the Woolworth store here.

Too Much Appetite may be as dangerous as too little

When the skin is sallow or yellow, the eyes dull, the head aches or sleep broken and unrefreshing, the back aches, or there is a pain under the right shoulder blade—it is an indication that the body is being poisoned by poorly digested and imperfectly eliminated food-waste. ## THE PUBLIC THE BENEFICIARY.

While the granting of an advance of 14 per cent in wages of the coke workers follows closely upon the decision of Doctor Garfield, fuel administrator, in making an award to the miners in the unionized districts, the action is in line with the long-established policy of the H. C. Frick-Coke company and the Connelville region.

The Connelville region, in main, has been in harmony with other mining districts. In fact, rather more so, the new scale being considerably higher for the same classes of work than in any other mining district in the United States.

The Connelville operators have always held themselves in readiness to meet, and most frequently to anticipate, wage advances in other fields and thus preserve the high standard of the Connelville region both as to wages and working conditions. The most recent advance, which averages very close to 100 per cent over the scale paid in 1914, is further evidence of the fairness with which the operators treat their employees. It is also proof of the desire of the operators to keep the rate of wages a safe lap or two ahead of the rising cost of living,
which has increased approximately 30 per cent since 1914.

The increase will add a very materially to the amount of the semi-monthly pay distributed throughout the region. The money placed in circulation will not doubt be of greater volume than during any previous period in the region's history. It will stimulate general buying and increase prosperity. It should multiply the opportunities for savings on part of the workers of which the thrifty and prudent will take advantage and the imprudent and unwise neglect with their financial indifference, as has always been the rule.

The cost of production will be very considerably increased, more than is represented by the 14 per cent advance in wages, it invariably happening that every increase in wages carries with it certain other increases in the cost of operation. A growing indifference to making full time is one of the results of high wages which means that plants cannot operate at full efficiency when the individual workers fail to do their part. To this extent the advance will be a disadvantage to both the operators and employees, but the general public which is dependent upon the business resulting from the activity of the coke plants will be the greater beneficiary.

BUT RED CROSS SEALS.

As part of the preparation for Christmas, the people of Connelville and vicinity have a splendid opportunity to extend the season's cheer to a number of less fortunate souls whom they do not have upon their lists to receive holiday reminders. This can be done so easily and at so little cost that none should lack the graciousness to take part in it.

Through the medium of the Red Cross Christmas seals every buyer of Christmas goods, be they simple and inexpensive or elaborate and costly, is provided a way to dispense charity and good cheer that will last all through the coming year. The proceeds of the sales of these seals being applied by the Red Cross in fighting tuberculosis throughout the land, the appeal made by this form of raising money for so worthy a purpose, should have a generous response. The largest share of the proceeds being set aside for expenditure in the district where the sales are made, the sales of the seals, with a local interest and ought therefore to induce liberal purchases of them by Connelville Christmas shoppers.

The purchase of seals may mean that the life of a tubercular subject in the incipient stages may be saved.
At least the buyer will have the comforting consolation of knowing that relief in some measure will be brought to some sufferer and every means taken to prolong their life or free them
of the perils of the dread plague.

The purpose of the Red Cross in the campaign now in progress being so entirely in accord with the Christmas spirit shoppers ought to be glad that facilities have been provided for the purchase of the seals, a systematic plan is being followed to make it convenient for buyers to secure them.
The allotment to Connelville is $300;
a small quota when we measure it by others we have met. It will not be in keeping with the Connelville way of doing things if the quota is not very largely exceeded. This can be done and done easily if while on their shopping tours during the next few days people make it a practice to include some Christmas seals with other holiday purchases.

Bringing Christmas cheer to shut-

ins and helping to insure them enjoyment still happier returns of the day will add immensely to your own enjoyment of the holiday week, for after all, you are not entitled to enjoy this happy occasion if you have not first brought joy to some other person.

Don't overlook the fine opportunities that are yours to make this a real Christmas for just as many persons as you possibly can. Buy Red Cross seals every time you buy a present, then buy some more.

You should be glad, instead of having to be urged, to come across them for Red Cross Christmas seals.

With a little exchanging the murder of General Felipe Angeles in true bandit style, and Washington breathing venoms through the State Department typewriter, Carranza's Christmas shopping is apt to be somewhat interrupted.

The Frick advance comes far enough in advance of Christmas to help some in providing for that festive occasion.

That party of Connelville who hunted in Maine never lost sight of the main purpose of their visit to contribute something to the reduction of the highest cost of living at home, even if it cost them dear.

The Connelville coke region will hold its first place as the place where mine workers can keep their place as top notchers among the wage earners.

PROMOTERS OF PRESTO COAL COMPANY PLACED ON TRIAL IN UNIONTOWN

Fourteen Separate Indictments Returned; Fairbairn Woman (Clubs
They Defrauded Here.

What promises to be one of the most hotly contested cases in criminal court in Uniontown was commenced Monday when one of the 14 separate cases against W. D. O'Donnell, of Gary, Ind., and other points and Emil E. Peters and John J. Yenik, was taken up before Judge E. H. Reppert, with an unusually large array of counsel at the defendants' table, and the searching investigation into the affairs of the Presto Coal company, a corporation, chartered under the laws of the state of Delaware was begun.

The three men are alleged to have realized $300,000 from the sale of stock.
The first of the cases taken up was that of Mrs. Annie Polk, of Fairbanks, who charges the three men with conspiracy to defraud and false pretense.

Mrs. Polk testified that Emil E.
Peters whom she knew for about 15 years and whom she had every confidence had sold her 20 shares in the proposed company at $10 per share and that he had later returned and sold her the same shares at $100 per share, which she alleged was a gross fraud.

She was led to buy the stock, she declared, by reason of the fact that she had been paid on both occasions the sum of $750 which she was told was dividends from stock in the Gary Steel Can Opener company a concern which O'Donnell is alleged to have been promoting.

The promoters, she declared, had told her that they had bought these shares near Ohio and that they were going to build houses and give the people who came there to work five acres of land each and that at any time she was dissatisfied with the stock certificates she would be able to get her money in full by calling at the offices which the promoters had established at Uniontown.

Counsel for the defense sought to assail the two indictments which had been returned by the grand jury at noon yesterday. Their every objection on minor points was, however, overruled by Judge Reppert.

O'Donnell has been in the Fayette county jail since he was brought back from Chicago on requisition papers, while the other two young promoters were released upon bail.

Just Folks

Dear A. Quinn

GETTING READY FOR CHRISTMAS.

Here's the old year slipping out of the way.

And the holidays—all talking about Christmas day.

Now the home's full of whispers and hints of the things

That must all up the pack, that old Santa Claus brings.

And the mother's all smiles, as she talks of the things

That shall come with the happiest day
of the year.

And I, when it's Christmas—well say that I'm just as contented as mortal can be.

Like nothing better than all of the triumph.

The coming of Christmas time shoulder on us.

There's something about us that banishes care.

And cures discontentment and comfort of despair.

Just letting them whisper their secrets at night.

And chuckle and giggle sets everything right.

I put on my pipe and I sit there and smile.

And vow that this happy old world
is worth while.

The scampers of feet is a joy to my ear
As they fly with their treasures near.

The labor of trimming the home for the day.

Let labor at all, the magnificent play
The planning surprises, and writing
the list.

Of the friends that we love so that none shall be missed.

Are tasks to which purchase any soul
wishes to run.

For it finds real delight in the work to be done.

Let some who will frown at the fuss
And frown and growl at the bills

to be paid.
Let the Scrooges who practice the
"widened" thrift.

Count sadly the money they spend
for a gift.

And picture the folly of scattering
"cheer."

I answer each sigh and I answer each sneer.

By saying: When Christmas sets, all over glow.

Getting ready for it is the best fun
I know.

Parade Tonight to be Followed by Formation of an Athletic Club.

COUNCIL HAS BUSY MEETING

Summers Matters Taken Up and Disposed of at Session Monday Night; Superior A. A. to Play Greensburg on Friday Night; Other Good Games

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 2.—An athletic club is to be formed of football and basketball players, and all persons interested in athletic events in the town. To create enthusiasm in the latter, there will be a parade tonight headed by the Mount Pleasant Municipal band.

Good Games Ahead.
The Superior A. A. will play Greensburg at the State Armory on Friday evening. Some other very good games are to follow on Christmas night, New Year's eve and New Year's night, with a dance after each game.

Infant Dies.
The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. James Mott, who died at the home at Central, will be buried this morning in the Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Council Meets.
Council held its regular monthly meeting last evening. Three arrests were reported by the burgess, with fines totalling $18, and permits amounting to $62. This was turned into council and accepted. The Sunday closing proposition was again discussed, complaints were heard and bills ordered paid. George Smith was given permission to enter the borough sewer. A motion was adopted to have the foreman itemize a report of the work done on the street and meet with the finance committee when a report will be made. Sewers and lights were discussed at length. Reports were given by Messrs. Goldsmith and Stevens on their trip to Harrisburg. The matter of the borough putting a sidewalk in front of the lot on Center avenue was left in the hands of the street committee. Council adjourned to meet December 15.

Students Enrolling.
Students are now enrolling for the winter term at the Mount Pleasant Institute which begins Wednesday, December 3.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE BLACK GATE"—Starring Earle Williams, the well-known Vitaphone star, is being shown today. Shaler Spencer, a mysterious lawyer, is now an idler and waster. Through his carelessness the inheritance left to his brother, Rod, is lost. About this time Allan Bowen, a theatrical manager, is murdered. Shaler sees a way to get his brother's legacy back by assuming to be the murderer. He lays his plans well, but a girl makes him change his mind and want to live. Shaler tries to show that his confession was a frame-up and almost succeeds when a heartbroken mother causes him to change his mind. Shaler confesses to the murder a second time and is convicted and sentenced to death.

While in jail waiting his turn to pass through the black gate, Shaler decides that he must live. The sentence is strong against him and it seems like a futile task to prove his innocence. Shaler has plenty of time to work out his case and with the help of brother and sweetheart, he succeeds in a very dramatic manner.

Tomorrow J. Warren Kerrigan will be presented in "A Burglar for a Night."

THE ARCADE.

"THE PASSING PARADE" opened a week's engagement at the Arcade theatre yesterday afternoon to a well-filled house. Without doubt, "The Passing Parade" has lived up to all that has been said about it. Those who witnessed the matinee yesterday were loud in their praise of the entire production. Billy B. Purl, starring comedian, makes the audience laugh continuously while he is on the stage. Supporting Mr. Purl is a cast of talented artists. June Tempest made a decided hit in her several song numbers. Lottie Gibson, the prima donna, has a very unusual voice and received numerous encores. "The Passing Parade Quartet" was the finest bit of singing in a long time. The chorus is really better dressed than most big road shows. The girls are good looking and can sing and dance. The show is in three scenes, requiring more than an hour, and a half. The serial picture, "The Great Gamble," is also shown.

On Wednesday there will be a complete change of program.

THE SOISSON.

"FAIR AND WARNER"—A delightful production, starring Mae Allison, is today's feature attraction. The hilarious stage success of Larry Hopwood, which was presented for so long in New York, other parts of the country and in London, with such success, has been done into picture form not only without the loss of any of the intrinsic punch and humor, but with an additional merit. The play which Selwyn & Company offered on the stage has been produced exceptionally well by Screen Classics, Inc. The cocktail scene, of course, will stand out anywhere. It is considered—and after seeing "Fair and Warner," that right at the Soisson we can understand why—the funniest one scene ever written into a play. But the rest of the picture is fully as funny. The theme, or plot, itself, has unlimited humorous possibilities, and Mr. Hopwood, with his agile genius for getting the most out of things, has taken full advantage of it.

The action concerns two young married couples. In one instance, the husband is too perfect; and in the other, the husband is also loyal and devoted but he considers it better policy to contrive to make his wife think he is not.

CONQUER POTATO WART

Conference of Officials Brings Out Measures of Eradication. Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Reports given at a recent conference of officials from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland, with the Federal Horticultural Board of the United States Department of Agriculture, called to consider the status of the potato wart disease, show that there has been only a slight spread of this recently discovered menace to the potato industry of America, and that by planting immune varieties, further losses from the disease can be practically eliminated. The potato wart is one of the most destructive maladies attacking potato crops in Europe, and heretofore no means has been known for eradicating it from the soil, once a garden or a field becomes infected. Not only have the investigators for the United States Department of Agriculture found varieties of potatoes which are immune but they have devised a method of thoroughly disinfecting the soil by the use of steam and formaldehyde.

As a result of the conference in Washington, it is announced that the state authorities of West Virginia and Pennsylvania will take steps to assist gardeners in the infected regions in the purchase of varieties of seed known to be immune. It may be found advisable, also, to undertake the disinfection of a limited number of garden plots. As the cost of this work is approximately $1,000 an acre, the efforts along this line will be limited until the most effective and economical methods have been discovered.

Why Have Ugly, Itchy Pimples?

Simple Treatment Clears Skin Quickly of All Unpleasant Eruptions.

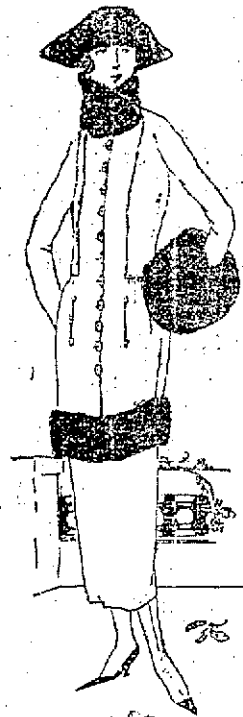

For several weeks past A. A. Clarke has done a big business and made lots of friends simply by recommending and selling Hokara—a skin healer that has miraculously aided many Connellsville people in restoring to them a clear natural, healthy skin. Hokara by its antiseptic healing qualities has been found to correct quickly all minor skin troubles such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, acne, scaly scalp, complexion blemishes, itching feet and piles. Uterus, sore, salt rheum, and even chronic eczema respond readily. There has yet to be found any form of skin disease that Hokara does not greatly help, and its action is so quick, pleasant and healing that those who have used it are delighted with it. In spite of its unusual healing powers, the price is a trifle. To convince you of its merit, A. A. Clarke, druggist, will sell you a liberal sized jar for only 50¢. If it doesn't do what's claimed to do—you can get your money back.—Adv.

"I give it to my children when they show the slightest symptoms of being croupy, and when I have a cough on cold on the lungs, a very few doses will relieve me, and by taking it for a few days I soon get rid of the cold."—Adv.

PRESIDENT EBBETS HAS IDEA

Brooklyn Executive Believes Baseball Stands Should Accommodate 70,000 People.

President Charles E. Ebbets of Brooklyn, who has many wise ideas in his bonnet, declares his belief that baseball grand stands should be rebuilt to accommodate 60,000 or 70,000 people, with popular prices charged.

President Charles E. Ebbets.

Five days a week and extra admission taxed for Saturdays and Sundays. He thinks the fans would show such interest and attendance under that plan that the clubs would make more money. Mr. Ebbets' idea of popular prices is nothing under 50 cents for a seat.

Pitchers Oeschger and Demaree of the Boston Braves, ran neck-and-neck in the struggle for batting honors this season. Oeschger finally winning out with an average of .464 to .458 for Demaree.

AGED MOTHER SETS EXAMPLE FOR SON

"Knowing what I can do for my 80-year-old mother, I immediately decided to try it when catarrh and indigestion began to get the best of me," said W. L. Parkworth, 1208 W. Montrossy ave., Phila. "I had lost 34 pounds. Catarrh soon drove the catarrh out of my system and I gained 15 pounds. I'm gaining weight and feeling fine now."

Catarrh is the most frequent cause of dyspepsia, Bright's disease, deafness and often serious lung troubles. Thousands have testified to Tanlac's power over this dreaded disease. People suffering from droppings in the throat, he-dashes coughing, up-to-mucus, fullness of the head, gas-trouble, frequent sneezing and watery eyes should immediately take Tanlac, which is sold here by Beigley's Pharmacy, Connelleville Drug Co., D. ## THE COW PUNCHER

"Brownie," he said, at length. The whole scene came back upon him—the moonlight, and Irene's distress, and the little bleeding body. And he had said he didn't know anything about the justice of God; all he knew was the critter that couldn't run was the one that got caught. And he had said that was life. He had said it was only nature.

And then they had stood among the trees and, beneath the white moon and pledged their faith.

Again his head went up and the old light flashed in his eyes. "The first thing is to kill the wolf," he said aloud. "No other innocent shall fall to his fangs. Then—my country!"

Darkness had again fallen before Dave found his car threatening the streets of the city, still feverish with its newborn excitement of war. He returned his car to the garage; an attendant looked up curiously—it was evident from his glance that Dave had already been missed—but no words were exchanged. He stood for a moment in the street, collecting his thoughts and rehearsing his resolves.

He was amazed to find that, even in his bitterness, the city reached a thousand hands to him—hands of habit and association and customs of mind—all urging him back into the old groove; all saying: "The routine is the thing. Be a spoke in the wheel; go round with the rest of us."

"No," he reminded himself. "No, I can't do that. I have business on hand. First—to kill the wolf!"

He remembered that he had given his revolver to Irene. And suddenly she sat with him, again at the table. "Where was he?" Yes, he had given his revolver to Irene. Well, there was another in his room.

In the hallway of the block in which he had his bachelor apartment Dave almost collided with a woman. He drew back, and the light fell on her face, but hers was in the shadow. And then he heard her voice.

"Oh, Dave, you're glad. Why, what has happened?" The last words ran into a little treble of pain as she noted his haggard face.

"You—Edith?" he managed to say. "Whatever?"

She came toward him and placed her hands on his. "I've been here a hundred times—ever since morning—ever since Bert Morrison called up to say you had disappeared—that there was some mystery. There isn't, is there, Dave? You're all right, Dave, aren't you, Dave?"

"I guess I'm all right," he managed to answer, "but I got a job on—an important job on. I must get it done. There is no time."

But her woman's intuition had gone far below his idle words. "There is something wrong, Dave," she said. "You never looked like this before. Tell me what it is. Tell me, Dave. Perhaps I can help."

Dave was silent for a moment, watching her. Suddenly it occurred to him that Edith Duncan was beautiful.

If she had not quite the fine features of Irene she had a certain softness of expression, a certain mellowness, even tenderness, of lip and eye; a certain womanly delicacy.

"Edith," he said, "you're white. Why is it that the woman a man loves will fail him, and the woman he only likes—stays true?"

"Oh!" she cried, and he could not guess the depths from which her cry was wrong. "I should not have asked you, Dave," she said. "I'm sorry."

They stood a moment, neither wishing to move away. "You said you had something that must be done at once," she reminded him at last. "Tell me, Dave. 'Yes,' he answered. 'I have to kill a man.' Then I'm going to join up with the army."

Her hands were again upon him. "But you mustn't, Dave," she pleaded. "You can't fight for your country then. You will only increase its troubles in these troubled times. Don't think I'm pleading for him, Dave, but for you, for the sake of us—for the sake of those who care."

He took her hands in his and raised them to his shoulders and drew her face close to his. Then speaking very slowly, and with each word by itself, "Do you really care?" he said.

"Oh, Dave!"

"Then come to my room and talk to me. Talk to me! Talk to me! For

"Yes," he answered, "I have to kill a man."

Gods sake talk to me! I must talk to someone."

She followed him, inside the room he had himself under control again. He told her the story, all he knew.

When he had finished she arose and walked to one of the windows and stood looking out, nursing eyes upon the street. For the second time in his life Dave had laid his heart bare to her, and again after all these years, he still talked as friend to friend. That was it. She was under no delusion. Dave's eyes were as blind to her love as they had been that night when he had first told her of Irene Hardy. And she could not tell him now. She had waited all these years, and still she must wait.

Dave's eyes were upon her form, silhouetted against the window. It occurred to him that in form Edith was very much like Irene. He recalled that in those dead past days when they used to ride together Edith had reminded him of Irene.

When she stood silent so long he spoke again.

"I'm afraid I haven't played a very heroic part," he said, somewhat shamefacedly. "I should have buried my secret in my heart; buried it even from you; perhaps most of all from you. But—you can advise me, Edith. I will value whatever you say."

She trembled until she thought he must see her, and she feared to trust her voice, but she could delay a reply no longer.

"Dave," she said at length, "why should you take Edward's word in such a matter as this?"

"I didn't take Edward's word. That's why I didn't kill him at once. It wasn't his word, it was the insight that cut. But she tried to save him. She threw herself upon me. She would have taken the bullet herself, rather than let it find him. That was what—that was what—"

"I know, Dave," she had to hold herself in check lest the tenderness that welled within her, and would shape words of endearing sympathy in her mind, should find utterance in speech. "I know, Dave," she said. "The next thing, then, is to make sure in your own mind whether you ever really loved Irene Hardy. Because if you loved Irene's week ago you love her tonight."

"Edith," he said, "there is no way of explaining this. You can't understand. I know you have given yourself up to a life of service, and I honor you very much, and all that, but there are some things you won't be able to understand. You can't understand just how much I loved Irene. Have you never known of love being turned to hate?"

"No. Other impulses may be, but not love. Love can no more turn to hate than sunlight can turn to darkness. Believe me, Dave, if you hate Irene now you never loved her. Lie."

Love beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

"Not all things, Edith; not all things."

"It says all things."

Dave was silent for some time. When he spoke again he caught a different sound in his voice—a tone as though his soul in those few moments had gone through a lifetime of experience.

"Edith," he said, "when you repeated those words I knew you had some thing that I have not. I knew it, not by words, but by the way you said them. You made me know that in your own life, if you loved, you would be ready to endure all things. Tell me, Edith, how may this thing be done?"

She trembled with delight at the new tone in his voice, for she knew that for him life would never again be the empty, slipshod, selfish, irresponsible thing which in the past he had called life.

"In your case," she said, "the course is simple. It is just a case of forgiving."

He gazed for a time into the street, while thoughts of bitterness and revenge fought for dominion of his mind. "Edith," he said, at length, "must I—forgive?"

"I do not say you must," she answered. "I merely say if you are wise you will. Nothing, it seems to me, is so much misunderstood as forgiveness. The one who is forgiven may merely escape punishment, but the one who forgives experiences a positive spiritual expansion."

"Is that Christianity?" he ventured.

"It is one side of Christianity. The other side is service. If you are willing to forgive, and ready to serve I don't think you need worry much over the details of your creed. Creeds, after all, are not expressed in words but in lives. When you know how a man lives you know what he believes."

"Suppose I forgive—what then?"

"Service," she answered, right away. "Dave, forgive me, frankness—your country needs you right now. You must dismiss this grievance from your mind, at least dismiss your resentment over it, and then place yourself at the disposal of your country."

"That is what I had been thinking of," he said. "At least that part about serving my country, although I don't think my motives were as high as you would make them. But the war can't last. It is unbelievable."

"I'm not so sure," she answered gravely. "Of course, I know nothing about Germany. But I do know something about our own people. I know how selfish and individualistic and sordid and money-grabbing we have been; how slothful and incompetent and self-satisfied we have been; and I fear it will take a long war and sacrifice and tragedies altogether, beyond our present imagination, to make us unselfish and public-spirited and clean and generous. I am not worrying about the defeat of Germany. It is our civilization to better than that of Germany we shall win; ultimately, and if our civilization is worse than that of Germany we shall be defeated ultimately—and we shall deserve to be defeated."

"But I rather think that neither of the alternatives will be the result. I rather think that the test of war will show that there are elements in German civilization which are better than ours, and elements in our civilization which are better than theirs, and that the good elements will survive and form the basis of a new civilization better than either."

"If that is so," Dave replied, "if this war is but the working of immutable law which proposes to put all the elements of civilization to the supreme test and retain only those which are justifiable by that test, why should I—or anyone else—fight? And," he added, as an afterthought, "what about that principle of forgiveness?"

"You must fight," she answered, "because it is the law that we must fight; because it is only by fighting that we can justify the principles for which we fight. ## A TWICE-TOLD TALE

One of interest in our readers.

Good news bears repeating and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitate to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. The following experience of a Connelville man is confirmed after ten years.

H. D. Barclay, 125 E. Crawford avenue, prop. shoe repair shop, says: "I had a severe attack of lame back and pains across my loins. I could hardly straighten up and couldn't rest well at night. The kidney secretions were highly colored and contained sediment. I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they acted promptly in regulating the action of my kidneys, clearing the secretions and relieving the lameness and soreness in my back and loins." (Statement given Oct. 12, 1909.)

On August 28, 1919, Mr. Barclay added: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally and find them the same as ever. I can recommend Doan's as highly as previously."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Barclay had. Foster-Milburn Co., Manufacturers, Buffalo, N. Y.

How He Ended Kidney Trouble.

"I had a severe attack of kidney trouble and for three weeks could not get out of doors and scarcely out of bed," writes C. E. Brewer, Village Springs, Ala. "Could not bend over at all without the most excruciating pains. I purchased a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills. Was relieved after first few doses and continued their use until completely cured. I consider Foley Kidney Pills the best kidney remedy in the world. No recurrence of my trouble. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Do You Enjoy Your Meals.

If you do not enjoy your meals your digestion is faulty. Eat moderately, especially of meats, masticate your food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals and take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper and you will soon find your meals to be a real pleasure.—Adv.

Judge Stricken.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—Judge Joseph M. Swearingen of common pleas court was stricken with apoplexy while sitting in criminal court here today.

ENDORSE WOOD

South Dakota Republicans Favor Army Officer for President.

By Associated Press. PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 1.—Governor Norbeck and W. H. King, chairman of the state central committee, leaders of the Republican party in South Dakota, announced at noon today that they endorsed Major General Leonard Wood as Republican candidate for President and declared that Wood would be endorsed by the state convention tomorrow.

Democratic leaders announced that their state convention tomorrow will endorse President Wilson for a third term if he is willing to be a candidate. Some of the Democratic delegates pointed out that this will leave the delegates free to make a further endorsement if necessary at the March convention.

SUFFERS SERIOUS BREAKDOWN

"Two years ago I spent three months in a hospital under stomach and bowel specialists for mucus colitis, auto intoxication, etc., which caused awful bloating and colic attacks. My friends gave me up. I returned home and on the advice of Mrs. Wright, a friend, tried May's Wonderful Remedy with wonderful results. Am now in best of health. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Should Be Quarantined.

Many physicians believe that anyone who has a bad cold should be completely isolated to prevent other members of the family and associates from contracting the disease, as colds are about as catching as measles. One thing sure—the sooner one rid himself of a cold the less the danger, and you will look a good while before you find a better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to aid you in curing a cold.—Adv.

Retreating Rapidly.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The forces of Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian government, are retreating with such rapidity that they are unable to construct defenses of which there is none west of Irkutsk, says a wireless dispatch from the soviet government at Moscow today.

STOMACH O. K.

Indigestion, Acidity, Sourness and Gases ended with "Pape's Diapepsin"

When your meals don't fit and you feel uncomfortable, when you belch gases, acids or raise sour, undigested food. When you feel lumps of indigestion pain, heartburn or headache, from acidity, just eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the stomach distress is gone.

The cost is so little. The benefits so great. You, too, will be a Diapepsin enthusiast afterwards.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easy and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Diphtheria

A sore throat is a good breeding place for Diphtheria germs. Protect your children by never neglecting a Sore Throat. You can wisely depend upon TONSILINE. Give Tonsiline upon the first appearance of Sore Throat—don't give Diphtheria a chance in that throat in its weakened condition. When TONSILINE is swallowed it comes directly in contact with the diseased surface and induces a healthy condition of the membrane—then the system can better defend the throat. If attacked by Diphtheria germs. Keep TONSILINE in the house where you can get it quick when needed. 25c, 50c and $1.00.
